JSCMS

Journal of
Supply Chain Management Science

FOCUS AND SCOPE

The Journal of Supply Chain Management Science (JSCMS) is a peer-reviewed open access journal (with no publishing fees) aims to publish high-quality papers on quantitative approaches to supply chain management.

Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- After sales service
- Aggregate planning
- Business scorecard
- Capability development
- Capacity planning
- Cross docking
- Customer service management
- Demand forecasting and management
- Distribution channel management
- Global supply chain management
- Human resources management (HRM)
- Information technology in supply chain
- Inventory management, JIT, MRP
- Online sales
- Partnership assessment
- Performance measurement and metrics
- Risk management
- Sourcing and replenishment
- Strategic alliances
- Supplier development
- Supplier segmentation
- Supplier selection
- Supply chain design
- Supply chain organizational structure
- Sustainability and supply chain management
- Transportation networks
- Vendor managed inventory (VMI)

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Dr. Jafar Rezaei, Delft University of Technology, 2628BX Delft, Netherlands; Email: j.rezaei@tudelft.nl

Submissions: Please submit all articles online at https://journals.open.tudelft.nl/jscms/about/submissions